

Giuseppe Tanzella-Nitti

The Theology of Credibility in the Scientific Context

Vol. II

The Credibility of Christianity

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Abbreviations

PART I: THE CREDIBILITY OF REVELATION AND THE REQUIREMENTS OF CONTEMPORARY RATIONALITY

Introduction

Chapter I: On the Possibility and the Nature of a “Theology of Credibility”

1. The New Approaches to the Theology of Credibility and the Role of Semiology

1.1 Credibility is a Property of the Revelation and Originally Refers to a Revealer

1.2 On the Relationship between Credibility, Sign, and Testimony

2. The Legitimacy of a Theology of Credibility within the Apologetic Dimension of Fundamental Theology

2.1 Rational Judgments and the Foundation of Theological Faith

2.2 Semantic Resonances of the Notion of Apologetics and of Its Use

2.3 On the Relationship between the Theology of Credibility and Apologetics

3. The Personal Character of Testimony and the Fundamental Logic of Christian Credibility, from Promise to Fulfillment

3.1 The Relationship between the Witness and the Truth: Opportunity and Risk

3.2 The Credibility of the Lover as Fidelity to the Promised Word

4. Credibility of Revelation and Scientific Rationality

4.1 The Scientific Mind Shapes the Interlocutor’s Rationality and Calls for the Intellectual Synthesis of the Witness

4.2 Scientific Rationality as Context of the Meaningfulness and of the Non-Contradictory Nature of the Revealed and Proclaimed Word

5. Recognizing the Act of Faith as Humanly Sensible, Intellectually Honest, and Ethically Responsible

5.1 What Makes the Revealer/Witness an Authentically Credible Person?

5.2 What Makes the Revealed Content a Reasonably Credible Truth?

5.3 How Do We Evaluate the Responsibility with Which to Assume the Risk That Results from the Relationship between the Credibility of the Revealer and the Truth of the Testified Realities?

Chapter II: The Self-Testimony of God in the Old Testament: The Credibility of the Divine Word between Promise and Fulfillment

1. The Miraculous Signs with Which the God of the Covenant Intervenes in History
2. A God that Works Miracles: At the Origins of the Theological Notion of “Miracle”
  - 2.1 The Religious Context of the Miracle and Its Use in the Biblical Sphere
  - 2.2 The Theology of the Miracle and Exegetical Criticism
3. The Omnipotence of God as Creator Attests to the Credibility of His Word
4. God Hears the One Who Call Him and Goes to Meet Those Who Confide in Him
5. The Sign of the Prophecy and the Testimony of the Prophets
6. The Credibility of the Word in the Old Testament and the Credibility of the Christian Proclamation in Contemporary Society
  - 6.1 The Belief in a God Who Gives Signs and Works Miracles: The Faith of the Jewish People and the Christian Theological Perspective
  - 6.2 Truth, History, and Prophecy: Testifying the Word

Chapter III: At the Center of the Credibility of the Revealer: Historical Access to Jesus of Nazareth, to His Personality, and to His Testimony

1. The Testimony of History: The Information about Jesus and the Christians Coming from Paganism and Judaism
  - 1.1 Extra-Biblical Pagan Sources
  - 1.2 Jewish Sources and Overview
2. The Debate about the Historicity and the Truth of the Evangelists
  - 2.1 The Historicity of the Gospels and the Historicity of the Gospel: A Fundamental-Theological Approach
  - 2.2 Objections to the Historical Truth of the Gospels and Paradigms of Reading the Story of Jesus
  - 2.3 Criteria for Evaluating the Historicity of the Evangelical Narratives and Their Use in the Fundamental-Theological Forum
  - 2.4 Access to the History and Teachings of Jesus through His Witnesses
  - 2.5 A Summarizing Outlook
3. The Personality and Human Psychology of Jesus of Nazareth
  - 3.1 The Emotions and Feelings of Jesus of Nazareth
  - 3.2 Jesus’ Psycho-Physical Conditions and Mental Health

3.3 The Human Traits of Jesus' Personality

3.4 Jesus' Relationship with Life and Death

3.5 The Witness Jesus and the Truth: What is the True Identity of Jesus of Nazareth?

4. The Uniqueness of the Story of Jesus of Nazareth against the Backdrop of Mythological Thought

4.1 The "Novelty" of the Mystery of the Incarnation

4.2 Myth and History

4.3 Myth as Expectation of a Fulfillment

Chapter IV: The Reasons for Believing in Jesus of Nazareth, Fulfillment of the Promise

1. The Appeal of Jesus to the Prophets and to the Fulfillment of the Scriptures

1.1 Is there an Argument from the Prophecies? The Unity and Intelligibility of the Word as Reason for the Credibility of the Revelation

1.2 The Logic and Argument for the Fulfillment of the Scriptures according to the Gospels

1.3 The Fulfillment of the Scriptures according to the Acts of the Apostles and the Other Books of the New Testament

1.4 The Reading of Prophecies made by the Ecclesial Tradition of the Major Prophecies Directed toward the Salvific Event of Jesus of Nazareth

1.5 The Argumentum ex Prophetia and Contemporary Rationality

2. The Signs of Jesus: The Appeal to Belief Motivated by Works and Miracles

2.1 The Biblical Testimony on the Works Accomplished by Jesus and Their Objective

2.2 The Christocentric Perspective and the Revelatory Value of the Miracles of Jesus

2.3 This Historicity and Realism of the Evangelical Narratives about the Signs and Works of Jesus

2.4 The "Proof" of the Miracles, between Faith and Reason, in the Context of Contemporary Rationality

3. The Pascal Mystery of Jesus as Sign Par Excellence

4. The Incarnation of the Word and His Pascal Mystery, a Credible Revelation of Man

4.1 The Mystery of the Word Incarnate Reveals Man to Man

4.2 The "Philosophical Reflection" on Jesus Christ as Implicit Contribution to the Credibility of the Revelation

4.3 Jesus Christ and the Fulfillment of the Expectations of Each Person

Chapter V: The Truth of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ, between Faith and History

1. The Living God, Cause of Life and Giver of Life
2. The Resurrection as Mystery and as Event: Epistemological Aspects
  - 2.1 Faith and History: Distinguishing Without Separating, Uniting Without Confounding
  - 2.2 What Does It Mean When We Affirm That the Resurrection Is a Historical Event?
3. The Testimony of the Narratives of the New Testament
  - 3.1 Appearances Narrated and the Message Proclaimed
  - 3.2 The New Testament Redactional Material
  - 3.3 The Pascal Events: The Information Available to a Fundamental-Theological Treatise of the Resurrection of Jesus of Nazareth
  - 3.4 About Certain Specific Inconsistencies of the Narratives
4. Some Aspects of the Exegetical Debate and Their Fundamental-Theological Value
  - 4.1 The Resurrection of Jesus and the Faith of the Disciples
  - 4.2 The Resurrection of Jesus, Exaltation of the Christ and the Apotheosis of the Victor
  - 4.3 The Interpretation of the “Third Day” in the Debate on the Realism of the Resuscitation of Jesus
  - 4.4 Faith in the Risen Lord and the Experience of the Empty Tomb
5. Apologetic Perspectives about the Classical Objections to the Resuscitation of Jesus of Nazareth
  - 5.1 The Preaching of the Risen Lord as Mythological Fable
  - 5.2 The Reliability of the Witnesses and the Debate about the Reality of the Apparitions of the Risen Lord
  - 5.3 The Removal of the Corpse of Jesus and the Dashed Eschatological Expectations
  - 5.4 The Absence of Public Apparitions and the Logic of the Communication of the Resurrection
6. The Position of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ in the Context of a Theological Renewal of Credibility
  - 6.1 The Credibility of the Resurrection of Jesus and the Credibility of Revelation
  - 6.2 The Sign of the Risen Lord and the Testimony of the Resurrection
7. The Theological Aspects Linked to the Tradition of the Burial Cloth of Jesus and the Documentary Information Delivered by the “Shroud of Turin”
  - 7.1 The Nature of the Shroud and the Available Information about It
  - 7.2 Knowledge about the Crucifixion and Death of Jesus of Nazareth from the Gospels
  - 7.3 A Proposed Epistemological Approach: Three Questions to Be Posed to the Shroud

7.4 The Attempts at Responding to Certain Questions

7.5 The Information on Jesus from the Shroud Document as Possible Source for Theological Work

7.6 The Shroud of Turin and the Christian Faith in the Resurrection of Jesus

Chapter VI: Believing in the Teaching of the Church, Witness of the Charity of Jesus Christ and His Resurrection

1. The Signs Accomplished by the Apostles and the Sign of the Life of the Christians, according to the New Testament

2. The Patristic Literature about the Church as Reason for the Credibility of the Christian Message

3. The Sacramentality of the Church and the Contemporary Reinterpretation of the Viae Notarum, Empirical and Historical

3.1 The Sign of a Paradox Leading into the Mystery

3.2 Today's Reinterpretation of the Tres Viae that Attest the Credibility of the Church

3.3 Contemporary Man before the Sign of the Church: Sacrament of Unity and Sign of Contradiction

4. The Christian as Sign of Jesus Christ: Testimony in the Logic of Christian Credibility

4.1 Elements of an Anthropology of Testimony

4.2 Witness and Testimony in the Economy of the Revealed, Received, and Delivered Word

4.3 The Christian, Witness of the Risen Christ

5. The Credibility of the Saints and the Sign of Sanctity in the Church

5.1 The Presumed Denial of the Sign of the Sanctity of the Church and the Value of the Public Recognition of the Faults of Christians

5.2 The Fruits of the Holy Spirit and the Testimony of Joy as Access to the Sign of Holiness

5.3 Children of God in the Church of the Saints and Martyrs: The Role of the Saint in the Faith and in the Perseverance of the People of God

6. The Continuity of the Christian Event and of the Spread of Its Salvific Message in the Catholic Church

6.1 The Question about the Origin and the Foundation of the Church

6.2 "Whoever Listens to You Listens to Me": The Continuity between the Community Built around Jesus of Nazareth and the Catholic Church

Chapter VII: A Credible Image of the God of Israel: The Reinterpretation of Violence and Vengeance in the Bible in Light of the Event of Jesus of Nazareth

1. A God of Violence and of Vengeance? The Contemporary Criticism to the Monotheistic Religions as Cause for Intolerance and Violence

1.1 The Theme of Violence and the Personality of YHWH, Avenger and One Strong in War

1.2 The God Revealed to Abraham and Criticism of Monotheism

1.3 Hermeneutic Frameworks of Understanding and Open Problems

2. How Should the “Difficult Pages” of the Old Testament Be Read?

2.1 Diversification of the Sources and Hermeneutic Specifications

2.2 A Canonical Approach to Scripture and the Internal Development of the Theme of Violence

3. The Preaching of Jesus of Nazareth and His Pascal Mystery as Definitive Revelation of the Non-Violence of God

3.1 Justice without Violence: On the Cross God Speaks in the First Person

3.2 Some Directions for the Work of the Pastor and of the Theologian

Chapter VIII: The Proclamation of the Gospel in the Contemporary Socio-cultural Context

1. The Secularized Society: Speaking of God in the Construction of the City of Men

1.1 The Many Faces of Secularization

1.2 Evangelizing in the Secular Era

2. Religious Indifference as the Practical Inability to Be Open to the Proclamation of the Gospel

2.1 Different Categories of Religious Indifference

2.2 Religious Indifference and the Broken Search for the Sacred

2.3 Looking for What Makes the Difference

3. The Vital World of the Subject and the Credibility of the Christian Message between Instances of Modernity and the Anthropology of Post-Modernity

3.1 The Instances of Modernity and Their Increasing Integration into Christian Thought

3.2 Emotions, Truth, and Experience: What Are the Directions for a “New Apologetics”?

4. The Opportunities for an Agnosticism and for a Non-Prejudicial Atheism, in Dialogue with the Faith

4.1 The Dignity of the Problem of God

4.2 A Path to Share

5. Speaking about God to a Man of Science: New Evangelization and the Scientific Culture

5.1 The Influence of the Scientific Culture on the Proclamation of the Gospel

5.2 Content to Be Promoted and Clichés to Be Overcome

6. Saving Modernity from Its Skeptical and Nihilistic Outcome: The Necessity of a Synthesis, However Incomplete, between Modernity and Christianity

6.1 The Forma Christi of Charity and of Filial Obedience as Foundation of Secularity

6.2 The Unity of the Life of the Christian, the Existential Place of a Synthesis with Modernity and with History

7. Concluding Thoughts: Some Pastoral Priorities and Their Pointing to a Renewed Theological Development

Chapter IX: Elements for a Systematic Summary of the Significance and Credibility of the Christian Revelation

1. Preparatory Elements: Education in the Metaphysical Sense, the Restoration of the Reason and the Desires

1.1 The Re-Education of the Metaphysical Sense

1.2 Educating to a Recta Ratio: Realism, Humility, Liberty, and Hope

1.3 The Education of Emotions and Desires

2. Why the Appeal of the Revelation Is Recognized as Significant: The Preambles of the Faith and Their Working for the Understanding of the Apostolic Kerygma

2.1 Preambles of the Anthropological-Existential Sphere

2.2 Preambles of the Historical-Positive Sphere

2.3 Preambles of the Philosophical-Metaphysical Sphere

2.4 Operations of the Praeambula Fidei in the Understanding of the Apostolic Kerygma

3. The Reasonableness of the Act of Faith and the Credibility of Revelation

3.1 What makes a Person and the Message that She Delivers Credible, and What Risk Is One Willing to Assume?

3.2 Signs of God and Judgments of Man

Bibliography

PART II: THE CREDIBILITY OF THE CHRISTIAN PROCLAMATION IN THE CONTEXT OF SCIENTIFIC THOUGHT

Introduction

Chapter X: The History of Salvation and the History of the Cosmos: The Uniqueness of the Christian Event and the Plurality of the Historical-Scientific Approach

1. The Space-Time Location of the Revelation, in Christ, of the God of Everything and Everyone
  - 1.1 The Universe in Which Man Hears the Word of God
  - 1.2 A Historic Revelation in One Cosmic Scenario: An Awareness Rich in Implications
2. The Meaning for Scientific Rationality of a Universe Created in Christ and in Sight of Christ
  - 2.1 Some References to the Doctrine of the Logos
  - 2.2 Implications about the Cognitive Realism of the Sciences, the Rationality, and the Dialogicity of the Natural World
  - 2.3 Information as Originative Component of a Cosmos Created in the Word-Logos and the Condition for Conferring Meaning to a Notion of Evolution
  - 2.4 The Created Universe Belongs to the Pascal Mystery of Jesus Christ
  - 2.5 A Way of Conclusion

Chapter XI: The Revelation of God to Man in the Cosmic-Evolutionary Context: The Emergence of Homo Sapiens and the Question of Life in the Universe

1. The Divine Revelation and the Historic Response of the Human Being: The Biological and Cultural Path of the Genus Homo
  - 1.1 The Fundamental Historical Stages That Have Led to Contemporary Man
  - 1.2 The Appearance and the Manifestations of the Sacred and of Religious Attitude
2. The Meaning of the Hebrew-Christian Revelation in the Context of the Religious Prehistory of Humanity
  - 2.1 A Methodological Premise
  - 2.2 "Human" Being, because He Is a Creature Before His Creator
  - 2.3 Trust, Fall, and Promise
3. The Appearance of Life in the Cosmos: Premises of the Theological Debate about the Presence of Intelligent Extraterrestrial Life
  - 3.1 The Position of the Problem

3.2 The Precedents of the Theological Debate

3.3 Which Epistemology for Addressing Questions to Faith?

4. The Meaning and Intelligibility of the Content of the Christian Revelation in the Face of the Question about Life in the Cosmos

4.1 The Value of the “Classical” Solution, and the Universal Intelligibility of the Image of the One and Triune God

4.2 A Cosmic Headship, and Therefore in the Creatural Order, of the Mystery of the Word Incarnate

Chapter XII: The Interpretation of Darwinism as a Critique of the Revelation of God in Nature and In History

1. The Meaning of the Question about God Starting from Nature: The Darwinian Criticism of Natural Theology

1.1 The Darwinian Mechanisms of Biological Evolution and Natural Theology

1.2 Teleology and Intentional Finality

1.3 The Meaning of a Question about God Starting from Nature

2. Natural Selection and the Problem of Cosmic Evil

2.1 Scientific and Philosophical Aspects

2.2 The Inevitability of the Laws of Nature between Philosophy and Theology

2.3 The Finitude and Incompleteness of a World Created in via, Accepted and Elevated by Love

Chapter XIII: The Significance of Miracles and the Relationship between Divine Action and Nature in the Epistemological Context of the Natural Sciences

1. The Philosophical Criticism of the Possibility of Miracles and the Problem of Its Recognition

1.1 Certain Criticisms from Modern and Contemporary Thought

1.2 The Object of the Miracle and the Significance of Its Call in the Context of Scientific Epistemology

1.3 The Reference to Science in the Understanding of the Ontological Dimension of the Miracle

1.4 Perspectives and Directions for Theological Work

2. The Understanding of the Divine Action on Nature and in History and Its Philosophical Interpretation

2.1 The Philosophical Perspective of Thomas Aquinas

2.2 The Modern Attempts to Develop “Scientific Perspectives on Divine Action”

2.3 The Idea of a “Special Action of God” and New Questions about the Problem of Evil

Chapter XIV: The Revelation of the Ultimate Realities: The Cosmic Dimension of Christian Eschatology

1. The First and the New Creation: The Implications Suggested by the Canon of Continuity and Discontinuity

1.1 The Future of the Cosmos and the Future of Man

1.2 The Future of the Cosmos and the Future of the Church

2. Time, Matter, and Eternity

2.1 The Physical Universe Points beyond Itself

2.2 The Uniqueness and Articulation of the Divine Plan on Creation

3. Personal Being and the Survival of Its Identity: Ancient Questions and Recent Perspectives

3.1 The Spiritual Dimension and the Personal Identity after Biological Death

3.2 The Individual Identity of the Risen Corpse and the Christian Faith in the Resurrection of the Flesh

Epilogue

Bibliography

Incipit of the Listed Documents

Index of Names